

Burning Brighter Together

Hi, my name is Emma Sykes. I am 22 and have Down Syndrome. Since leaving school, I found it difficult to find employment. My Dad, Tony was self-employed and suggested we start our own candle making business. We started to do some trials with fragrant soy candles and soon realised we needed some advice. Lots of it!

Fortunately, we were introduced to Jennifer from illumina. We met her to gain some insights into the world of candle making and thanks to her generous and supportive help, together we have created a whole new company: DOWNLIGHTS. I am now involved in the manufacturing, packaging, sale and distribution of beautiful scented soy candles, co-produced with illumina in NZ.

We want to be able to expand and employ others with Down Syndrome so we have teamed up with Interworld Fundraising to take DOWNLIGHTS nationwide as a fundraising tool for schools and community groups.

Lets help each other illuminate.

Downlights is partnering with Interworld Fundraising to take these bespoke candles across New Zealand.

Christmas is in the Air

This Christmas, we are doing a fundraiser with Downlights Fundraising. These handcrafted renewable soy candles in three amazing Christmas fragrances. These candles are perfect Christmas presents or end of year thank you gifts.

Our school aims to sell 6 candles per family to friends, extended family, work colleagues and/or the local community. Each candle sold makes $5 for our school. There is a prize for the schools top seller if our school sells over 100 candles. We appreciate your effort to make this a success.
